DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-10, 17 and 19-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. Claims 1 and 17 recite a method for utilizing one of the multiple wireless channels. These claims are directed to a judicial exception, namely, a data manipulation or abstract idea. Note that the method steps recited in claim 1 and the elements recited in claims 1 and 17 are disclosed by specification. Since there are no practical applications claimed, i.e., no physical transformation taken place, nor a useful, concrete and tangible result being produced, the claims are non-statutory.

In order for a claimed invention to accomplish a practical application, it must produce a “useful, concrete and tangible result” State Street, 149 F.3d at 1373, 47 USPQ2d at 1601-02 (see MPEP 2106.II.A). A practical application can be achieved through recitation of “a physical transformation outside the computer for which a practical application in the technological arts is either disclosed in the specification or would have been known to a skilled artisan”, or “limited to a practical application within the technological arts” (MPEP 2106 IVB2(b)). Currently, claim meets neither of these criteria. In order to for the claimed process to produce a “useful, concrete and tangible” result, recitation of one or more of the following elements is suggested:

- The manipulation of data that represents a physical object or activity transformed from outside the computer (MPEP 2106 IVB2(b)(i)).

Art Unit: 2616

- A recitation of a physical transformations outside the computer, for example in the form of pre or post computer processing activity (MPEP 2106 IVB2(b)(i)).
- A direct recitation of a practical application in the technological arts (MPEP 2106 IVB2(b)(ii)).

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claim 17 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
3. Claims 11-16 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Claims are allowable over the prior art of record since the cited references taken individually or in combination fails to particularly discloses in a wireless communication system, an apparatus for selectively utilizing wireless channels, said apparatus comprising: a first signal source for providing subsectional signals of a first transmit signal; a second signal source for providing a second transmit signal; transceivers in default communication with said first signal source, one each of said transceivers supporting one each of said wireless channels for transmitting said subsectional signals over multiple ones of said wireless channels; and a signal selector in selective communication with each of said first signal source, said second signal source, and one of said transceivers, said signal selector comprising: a detector element for detecting an intent to convey said second transmit signal over one of said multiple wireless channels; a disable timer in communication with said detector element for preventing communication of one of said subsectional signals via said one wireless channel for a predetermined time interval; and an enable element for enabling a transmission attempt of said second transmit signal during said predetermined time interval, said enable element synchronizing an operation of said second signal source with said one of said transceivers.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. See PTO form 892.
